

Adam Reynolds

Adam Reynolds is a recent graduate from the University of Vermont (UVM) with a Bachelor of Science in Community Development and Applied Economics (CDAE). During a hiatus from school, he worked in San Francisco, CA, as an operations manager in international communications and conference production. While at UVM, he taught a semester of ecological economics. He has also consulted for local non-profit ReSOURCE, conducting evaluation and strategic planning for their YouthBuild program, which provides vocational rehabilitation for delinquent and at-risk youth in the Burlington and Barre communities. Adam currently works as a research associate in the CDAE department.