

Temple University

Philadelphia Neighborhoods

Klein College of Media and Communication

Philadelphia, PA

Partnership

Students at Temple get the chance to work for Philadelphia Neighborhoods, an online news outlet run by the school that focuses on oft-overlooked communities in the city.

Lead faculty

Christopher Malo, Director, Philadelphia Neighborhoods Program, malo@temple.edu

Website

Philadelphia Neighborhoods

Collaborators

The stories can be taken by other news outlets as long as they follow the republishing guidelines outlined on the website.

Students

269,699 at Temple University

3,000 in the School of Communication

60 in the partnership, per semester

Student work

Student work is edited and assigned by the director of the program.

Faculty/staff

The director edits and assigns student work. There is also another staff member that deals with web design and publishing content.

Funding sources

University funded with addition grant funding for special projects and breaks.